REMARKABLE LIFE CLOSES

UNCLE HENRY BERRY CALLED FROM EARTH.

A PATRIOT AND SAINT

Faithful Old Methodist Familiar to All the Members, Dies at Age of Eighty-six—His Career.

Henry Berry, an uncle of Attorney W. C. Bailey, died at 11:45 Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Coats. With his death a remarkable man has left the earth.

Mr. Berry was eighty-six years of age, and died from the effects of old age. He was one of the most faithful, earnest christian men it has been our privilege to know. He was of no common stuff. He was born in New York among the old and substantial Dutch aristocracy of the Hudson valley, and was connected with some of the best families of that section. Indeed he was related in no very distant way to no less a personage than President Martin Van Buren, who was a typical representative of his section. When Mr. Berry was eleven years of age he went to follow the sea, and ever after his vocation was that of a sailor. He served in the United States navy under that renowned seaman of his day, Commodore Hull, and was an intense patriot. Doubtless Uncle Sam never had a more conscientious defender. His coffin might well be draped with the American flag. Mr. Berry has been all over the world in his various experiences on the sea, in the whaler trade and in the naval service. Not a port could be suggested, nor an island, cape or inlet mentioned but Mr. Berry, up to his last days, could tell its location, and more than likely spin some little yarn of his personal contact with it. Some of the tales he told were stranger than any fiction ever written, and if truth were not indeed "stranger than fiction," might easily be pronounced the vagaries of an irresponsible prevaricator. But to some of us he has related these experiences for many years, and so consistent were the tales, and of so high character the man who told them, that it never occurred to us to doubt them. They were true, and it is unfortunate that no manuscript remains to record the history of this remarkable, faithful man and seaman in every quarter of the globe, among the cannibals and savages of the islands as well as among the polished habitues of the avenues of Europe. Mr. Berry was a Methodist, and Rev. Chesteen Smith, the pastor of the church he has been so faithful in attending, will say his requiem.

May it be that this saintly soul has at last found rest in a peaceful harbor, sheltered from tempestuous billows, beyond the raging storms, and where the voices that he hears, no longer shrill commands, are the shouts of the redeemed and the anthems of the choir invisible.

Rooms 11, 12 and 13, Brownell, Broadway Building.

Lines Written On Board "What hat Thas I sat side by side with my love at And the stars they came out in the blue And like a tone lower the breeze gan log And soft fell the cool silver dew Oh how fair are you stars in their blue realmat Clear calm their journey pursue I thought no Of them when I looked on you. Then I went To begin the world anew oh cruel and dark as a cloud covered night was my life until the day that I spoke your stor Joy soon I was bathed in a beautiful light and it bliss that till then I never knew as soothingly after the days willing toi On the earth falls the cool silver dew So on my once withered heart falls more soothing Sweet your love and your sympathy true in an hour like this best feel their contrite ever young ever fresh ever true and I bless the mild power that binds all my soul in the bond of affection to you with thee at my side I envy no bliss that the happiest ever yet knew and ill s My devotion to thee with a kiss And ever remain fond and true

Lines to Mary 1856

When clouds are dark and winds blow high Dear maid you will surely think of me whose fate is in that stormy sky or on the raging sea and oft thou will think at eventide when flowers perfume the brea of him who would be by thy side but still must roam the sea Oh dear maid then will think he &he the Stars shine bright out o'er the azure sky of one who cries their hallowed lig and dreams that they are nights Joys dear maid he sees the in that one bright Star pure emblem of our love that minds us as it beams afar our vows are sealed above And still his wandering eye shall catch its loved and stilly light and think of the who too Most watch loves altar pure and bright Its meanes is the sweet sea breze that bears his vows to shear or visions powerd on the seas to meet and part no more

Ship Corinthian, Captain Thomas Russell Bound on a Whaling voige To the Artic Regions Written by Henry Beery of, Soyansport, Inda it was on the eleventh of october 1855 We laid our anchor from

Ship Corinthian of New Bedford Sailed from New Bedford on the eleventh of october 1853 on a Whaleing voige to the Artic regions with a crew of hardy young men We sailed early in the morning of the 11th and had to beat out of the bay the green hands thought it was very pleasant they were in high spirits smiling about 10 o'clock in the afternoon then we got a Southwester A regular old Sneezer we lay all that night under a close reefed Main topsail in the morning we had good weather made Sail and proceaded on our voige and commenced filling our boats for Whaleing manned the mast heads to look out for Sperm Whales the green hands all down with seasickness on we went bounding over the Mountain billows of the north and south atlantic on the first of January 1854 we saw Staten Island situated in Latitude 54°48 South longitude 64°45 west there we spoke the Ship Comet of Boston from Sanfrancisco bound to Boston on the third we were off the rock Horind shore of Cape Horn here we got a heavy gail of wind from the southward it blowed very heavy with a heavy Sea A raining over ship labored very heavy we shiped one Sea that stove the bow boat the gail lasted about fourty eight hours then we proceaded on our passage on the eight we saw the Coige ranines in the Latitude 56°29 South longitude 67° 32 west. this land is the Southern extremity of America we have not seen any Whales on our passage so far we are steering to the northward again on the west side of the land with fine weather we saw no whales until about the twen eight of January 55 Then we saw two larg whales at four o'clock P.M. we lowerd three boa but didnot get nee didnot stop as we had orgitten that night for we had no time so stood along on our cours on the 30th of January we came to an anchor in the ista[illegible] de la Mocha heare we got our wate and potatoes lay here ten dayes two men runaway lay off and on four days got our men and proceeded on our voige
